Creating an Icon The Photoshop painting tools can be used for icon designs. They are ideal for painting icon titles in the middle of a graphic design. Icons are the small pictures or graphics that have become as ubiquitous as standard web graphics. To start the icon design process, set up a new document in Photoshop using the PSD file I created for this book. Click the File menu, choose New, and choose Web Icon, as shown in Figure 13-1. The image size options are designed for online applications, so you may want to adjust the image size to suit your needs, such as the short side size. The 2,300-pixel by 1,600-pixel size is the maximum for web use, but you can resize and crop it in the process. * * * * If the File menu list is abbreviated, click the File tab and then click Edit. From the Drawing, Selection, and Artboards tabs, click the triangle arrow in the upper-left corner of the drawing area and choose New. * The image size options are shown at the bottom of the dialog box. If you are using Photoshop CS3 or later, you can enlarge the image as needed for web use. Figure 13-1: The Web Icon file type enables you to design tiny images that will be displayed and included in web applications. The dialog box shown in Figure 13-2 opens. This dialog box provides options for creating a web icon from scratch or from an existing image. If you want to start over from scratch, click the Create Icon from Scratch option. I used an existing image to start off my icon and give you an example of creating an icon from scratch. The file location options are under the Basic Settings tab. If you want to start over with an existing image, locate the file you want to work with in the open dialog box and click OK. If you want to start with an image that is not on your computer, upload the

Q: android show camera over internet? I want to show the Camera in my android app. Now I want to show it over the internet and so the camera should not be on my device but in the server! So how do I do that? I googled a lot but did not find any Solution and I don't want to create my own server because there is already a TONS of "Camera" apps out there with that. (But I do need to show the cam over the internet) A: For google Goggles (another camera app), this API does what you want. And here is the code (I have not tested it, just copied it from the API page): CameraSource source; try { source = CameraSource.Builder(this, THIS_PACKAGE) .setFacing(CameraSource.CAMERA_FACING_BACK) .setType(CameraSource.TYPE_QR_CODE) .build(); } catch (CameraAccessException e) { throw new RuntimeException(e); } Camera.CameraInfo info; try { info = source.getCameraInfo(); } catch (CameraAccessException e) { throw new RuntimeException(e); } And if it fails, you can check if the source is built properly: if (info.facing == CameraSource.CAMERA_FACING_BACK) { //... } Also you might want to check if this is supported on your specific device. I had 12 bottles of Pain Relievant Vodka with my sister over the Christmas holiday and I decided to try it out. It's a good vodka I think. Bassetts Grove Premium Vodka is based on a recipe first tried in England in 1620 and has had its name changed several times since. Like Peychaud's Bitters, the company has released several limited edition expressions to raise awareness of their product and company. The VODKA and Bitters are bottled at a 95 proof for convenient consumption. I enjoyed both quite a bit. I'm going to give my thoughts on each in order of preference so I can provide them as advice to consumers. Pain Relievant Vodka 8.5/10 This is really a good vodka if you're looking for a fizzier and lighter vodka. A handful of downed shots will have a mild, almost milky, feel to it. I'm impressed that Pain Relievant re-released this after the company was not very successful with the introduction of their 64 proof and super high proof grain alcohols. I was at a party in B.C. when they were announced and I saw a lot of unhappy people. It's a really good vodka if you like the burn. I loved the depth of flavor. I drank it over ice and it became a lovely, orange-flavor, floating crystal in my glass. I enjoyed it quite a bit and would probably drink the remainder of the bottle and a few more. It's very good stuff. I'd be curious to try it on the rocks. Bassetts Grove Bitters 9.5/10 These are a really nice and distinctive bitters. They have notes of ginger, molasses, cardamom, bitter orange, black pepper, cloves, anise and cinnamon. I've been using these bitters for a few years now and they've impressed me with their capacity to preserve the character of my booze, especially when adding shots of any variety. I made gin and rum cocktails with some recently and the bitters knocked it out of the park. I'd buy them again, and I've bought them several times. They are also another good example of a company that has a good product that they don't sell a lot of – here in Canada, the last time I bought
